Message from the Editor

Dear Readers,

March heralds the coming of spring in the Northern hemisphere. Although we are right on the equator, Malaysia is also experiencing "spring" in March. We experience a kind of "winter" when work winds down in December. People begin to clear their leave over Christmas and New Year, and we have a string of public holidays - Christmas, New Year, Thaipusam and Chinese New Year. Things will stay quiet until Chinese businesses come back from their long Chinese New Year breaks in February. I'm very much looking forward to getting into gear and getting some momentum going. To begin planting seeds, in work, in life, for a rewarding year. I hope that this season brings you as much anticipation and joy as it does me.

Transform the Qi this Spring!

On 28 March 2019 at 21:30, back to West direction to wish for better Qi around you.

Can Qi be Detected Physically Using an Instrument?

“气乘风则散，界水则止。古人聚之使不散，行之使有止，故谓之风水。”

The most basic Feng Shui saying goes, “Qi is dispersed by the wind and gathers at the boundaries of water.”

Feng Shui 风水, was originally known as Xiang Di (相地), meaning the observation and analysis of the earth. The practice of Xiang Di (相地) helped the Chinese to select the right locations for settlement and for the locations of shrines, temples and fertile lands. Later during the Qin Dynasty, ancient geographers studied the ridges and valleys of mountain ranges and referred to them as Di Mai (地脉), meaning the arteries and veins of the earth. During the Western Han Dynasty, the combined study of geography and astrology, the study of heaven, earth and the study of the environment (mountains and water) by considering their shapes and directions was known as Kan Yu (堪舆). There was nothing mentioned about the physical properties of Qi in these studies.

It is believed that no instrument is able to detect Qi directly, although we can find evidence of the effects of Qi. Qi is measured these days using the theories and fundamental principles of Feng Shui passed down over many generations by famous geomancers such as Guo Pu (郭璞), Yang Yunsong (楊筠松), Wu Jing Luan (吳景鸞) (Wu Jing-Luan was also known as Wu Zhong-Xiang) and Jiang Da Hong (蔣大鴻).

Most of these ancient geomancers were Taoist practitioners. During the Zhou Dynasty, Chinese theories on the nature of the Universe, such as those elaborated by the Taoists, became popular and helped shape some of the theories of Feng Shui. Thus, the study of the I Ching (易经), He Tu (河图), Luo Shu (洛书), Yin Yang theory (阴阳), trigrams of the Ba Gua (八卦), the Five Elements (五行), Zhan Bu (占卜)- which deals with the nature of water on a site and underground streams, and Constellations recorded in the Book of Odes (诗经) have a place in Feng Shui practice. The best way to create Man Luck then was to cultivate Qi through the body, mind and spirit. Man Luck together with Heaven Luck and Earth Luck form the cosmic trinity that determines a person's destiny.

Most of the time, the most practical way of sensing Qi and working with Qi is with the help of energy healers, instead of using an instrument. Feng Shui masters have trained their eyes to look for possible Qi flows through the application of theories from ancient geomancers.

But... how did the ancient geomancers know that there was Qi? How did they come to formulate theories and principals to measure these Qi if they could not see it or detect it physically?

Can Qi be Detected Physically?

Yes, Qi can be detected physically. There is an instrument that can be used to detect Qi. The instrument is known as a dowsing rod, which is made out of copper or other metals.

In ancient times, when wells needed to be built, geomancers or Taoist masters were employed to locate underground water. Dowsing rods were the instruments used to locate ground water, buried metals or ores, gemstones, oil and gravesites. The L-shaped rod is also known as a divination rod. The two L-shaped rods, held straight and parallel to each other at the chest level of the diviner, will dip, twitch, cross over each other or move apart when the diviner walks over underground water. The two L-shaped rods were mostly used to locate underground water in China, but the actual use of the rods was to detect Qi.

The L-shaped dowsing rod first appeared in an etching of the great Emperor Yu, of the Xia Dynasty, in China. In his hands he holds a rather bulky pronged device that resembles a dowsing device. Different dowsing devices were recorded in ancient civilization. A cave drawing in Tassili, Algeria shows a man searching for water using a dowsing rod. Dowsers appear engraved on ancient Egyptian stonework. Record shows that dowsing was practiced in Germany during the 16th century to locate metals.

However, through the results of many dowsing experiments, scientists have concluded that dowsing fails to find underground water.

Back to the basic saying of Feng Shui, "Qi gathers at the boundaries of water." It was assumed then, that where vibrant Qi gathers, there is a source of water. This statement can be true or false. This is because Qi also gathers at wide open spaces known as "bright halls." So, when the rods were used for detecting underground water, it could be rather hit-or-miss.

Albert Einstein, however, was convinced about the authenticity of dowsing. He said, "I know very well that many scientists consider dowsing as they do astrology, as a type of ancient superstition. According to my conviction, this is, however, unjustified. The dowsing rod is a simple instrument which shows the reaction of the human nervous system to certain factors which are unknown to us at this time."

How to use L-shaped dowsing rods to measure Qi?

1. Hold the shorter end of the rods steady in your hands at an arm's length from your body.
2. The long ends of the rods should point outward and away from the dowser.
3. The long ends of the rods should be straight

Ancient Drawing of Qigong Practice and parallel to each other.

4. In this position, walk to the area you wish to measure.
5. Whenever the rods cross and move away from each other, it's an indication that the energy field has changed.
6. The movement of the rods shows that there is Qi in the area.

Personal Experience

Personally, I have had the experience of using the L-shaped dowsing rods to measure Qi, not from the environment, but Qi cultivated in the physical body in a Qi Gong class. Qi is the active energetic principle that forms part of every living thing. It is intangible but it is the life force underlying all living beings.

Before and after the practice of Qi Gong, the Qi measurement from the physical body is totally different. To measure the Qi, we walked toward the person we were measuring holding the dowsing rods. We measure the distance between the rods and the person at the point when the rods started moving apart while walking towards the person. What we found was that the two rods moved apart at a further distance from the person on the second day as compared to the first day. This shows that the Qi is healthy, vibrant and positive. It forms an invisible wall of protection from the distance of the rods to the person. We also did a test where the person put a smartphone in his pocket. The Qi of the person with the smartphone quickly weakened. The two rods moved apart only a short distance away from the person. This indicates that smartphones may be bad for our health.

As for using the rods to find a dragon vein or to find water, I cannot give any testimonial. But I can say that Qi can be cultivated and transformed. A person who has a practice of cultivating physical Qi can positively affect and transform the Qi in his environment.

In classical Feng Shui terms, the landscape and liveliness of the Qi of the environment always affect the occupants. However, by cultivating physical Qi (Man Luck), a person can transform the Qi in his surroundings into positive Qi (more of this on page 9). Transforming the Qi in your surroundings may not make you an instant millionaire, but it will make your life run a lot smoother and you will feel happier. Feng Shui is not merely about making one rich. In fact, Feng Shui should be used to help us achieve a happy and fulfilling life. This does not necessarily equate to material wealth.

Qi Transformation

What is Qi?

Qi translates as air and material energy, life force, or energy flow. Qi is energy in the very broadest sense possible. Qi is universal. In traditional Chinese culture, Qi is believed to be a vital energy for all living entities. Qi embraces all manifestations of energy, from the most material aspects of energy such as the earth beneath your feet, flesh and blood and man-made objects, to the most immaterial aspects such as light, movement, heat, nerve impulses, thoughts and emotions.

Qi is in a state of continuous flow, transforming from one aspect of Qi into another aspect endlessly. It cannot be destroyed. It simply transforms.

What is Qi in Feng Shui?

In Feng Shui terms, Qi is the energy that emanates from landforms such as mountains and water, and from man-made structures such as roads, highways and buildings surrounding our living space. Qi from the environment is the central concept in Feng Shui.

All of us are affected by the environment. When we say that we want to activate or mitigate the Feng Shui of a certain location, we are actually trying to trigger and transform the Qi of that location. When the Qi is auspicious or positive, we want to activate it, so that it benefits us more. When the Qi is negative or there is Sha Qi, we try to divert, block, deflect and weaken the Sha Qi. These actions are attempts to transform the Qi in the environment so that it is in alignment with the occupants.

Humans are the embodiment of Qi

The Zhuangzi, an ancient Chinese text from the late Warring States period, states “Human beings are born as the result of the accumulation of Qi. When it accumulates there is life. When it dissipates there is death." For people to love, to feel, to heal or to create value, Qi is needed. Qi is accumulated and emanated in the body subconsciously. Qi is a vital energy flow for human beings. The Qi in human bodies must be balanced for good health.

This is why all the ancient sages practiced the cultivation of Qi. In ancient China, the earliest teachings on the cultivation of Qi came from Confucianism, Taoism, Buddhism and Chinese Wushu.

In our modern times, there are many ways to cultivate Qi. They are usually some form of energy healing. Some of the examples of energy healing are polarity therapy, Qigong, Shiatsu, Reiki and Pranic Healing. All these techniques work to balance the energy of our bodies so that we can live healthily and feel fulfilled. At the advanced level of all these teachings, you will come to learn and understand that you, yourself can affect and transform the energy of your environment so that it becomes more positive over a certain period of time.

Transforming Qi Positively

In Chinese Metaphysics, it is also recorded that a person can transform the Qi of the environment. In the Qi Men Dun Jia study, the Surging Snake Deity has the ability to transform or manoeuvre the Qi in the environment. Those who have the Surging Snake as their Guardian Angel, or those who have high levels of Surging Snake (at least level 5 to level 7), also have this natural ability.

If you do not meet the above criteria, do not fret. The Surging Snake Deity gives off positive energy on certain days. Tap into this energy by asking the Deity to change the Qi of your home to be more positive.

A Simple Investment Guide

Keep in mind that proper understanding, careful study and analysis are still needed before you make any investment. In fact, the information you acquire through your research will serve as confirmation as to whether you made the right decision to go ahead with your investment or to call for an exit.

This is another case study of Qi Men Dun Jia ('QMDJ') Forecasting for investment. Let's take a look at the QMDJ Chart on 30 January 2018 at 15:18, and how this chart can give you some simple investment guidance.

Question: Is this a good month for setting aside money for investments?

This chart gives you a very straightforward answer. The Life Door which represents your Investment is located in the North Palace. Wu Earth at the West Palace produces into Life Door Palace. The Heaven Stem is Ding Fire with Hero Star. This denotes that the stem and star are in punishment and restriction. The investment you are thinking about will make some profit but not much, possibly about 18% return.

Conclusion: In such cases, it is "BUY."

Xuan Kong Flying Star's Top Secret - The Seven Star Robbery

© Steve Cullen

Many Feng Shui enthusiasts may have heard or read about Seven Star Robbery in Feng Shui forums or books. The name "Seven Star Robbery" itself sounds quite mysterious. In fact, the term comes from Yang Gong's secret Feng Shui method. So, how does Seven Star Robbery come about? Let's take a look!

Technically, the Seven Star Robbery is connected to the Heavenly Gua of Thunder and Wind (天卦雷风相搏), the Heavenly Gua of Mountain and Lake (天卦山泽通气), and the Three Yang Star (三阳星).

The Seven Star Robbery harnesses energies that arise from the influence of the Big Dipper on the Earth. There is a saying, "The image of Heaven taking form on Earth benefits the people." The seven stars in Seven Star Robbery refer to the seven stars that form the Big Dipper.

1. Merak
Heavenly Jade 天璇 (Huge Door “巨门”)
Flying Star: 2 Black
2. Phecda
Sky Opportune 天玑 (Reward “禄存”)
Flying Star: 3 Jade
3. Megrez
Heavenly Power 天權 (Literary Art “文曲”)
Flying Star: 4 Green
4. Alioth
Jade Clash 玉衡 (Chastity “廉贞”)
Flying Star: 5 Yellow
5. Mizar
Open Yang 开阳 (Military Art “武曲”)
Flying Star: 6 White
6. Alkaid
Bright Precious Jade 摆光 (Broken Soldier “破军”)
Flying Star: 7 Red

The Three Yang Star refers to the position of stars, mainly Chastity (廉贞), Military Art (武曲), Broken Soldier (破军) and the Left and Right Assistant (左輔, 右弼) Stars that form the handle of the Big Dipper. The handle is the guide. When the handle is pointing to the East, the world is in spring; when the handle is pointing South, the world is in summer; when the handle is pointing West, the world is in autumn; when the handle is pointing North, the world is in winter. In the Heavenly Jade Scripture (Tian Yu Jing), it is stated that for “The Big Dipper to rob, South “Li” Palace, must be in harmony (北斗七星去打劫, 离宫要相合). This is one of the criteria for the formation of the Seven Star Robbery structure.

When the Seven Star Robbery structure appears in a property, it brings fortune quickly and has the power to bring back life. For this structure to work effectively, the structure must be compatible with the landform. Some people applying Xuan Kong Flying Star theory think that the Seven Star Robbery structure will work as long as the property sits in front of a prosperous mountain (旺山旺向). However, this is incorrect. The property must fulfil the following conditions:

1. The property faces a bright hall.
2. The incoming mountain must meet with (or mirror) the Big Dipper Stars. This denotes good fortune.
3. One of the stars in the Seven Star Robbery flying star set must fall into the water mouth of the property. Ideally, the water mouth is the main door of the property. The water mouth can also be a side door, balcony or window.
4. One of the stars in the Seven Star Robbery flying star set must fall into a bedroom (preferably the master bedroom).

On the other hand, if the property appears to have this structure, but the above conditions are not met or if there is a Fu Yin formation, there will be a negative impact. The occupants will experience financial losses and legal problems.

Seven Star Robbery Structure criteria:

1. Double Star at the Facing Palace
2. 1,4,7 and 2,5,8 and 3,6,9 set of Stars must be in Li (離), Zhen (震), Qian (乾) or Kan (坎), Dui (兌), Xun (巽).
3. Property facing Li (離), Zhen (震), Qian (乾), Kan (坎), Dui (兌) or Xun (巽).
4. The Three Palaces must be penetrating Qi.
5. Unable to work when met with the Fan Yin or Fu Yin formation.

2019 Special Annual Flying Star

In the year 2019, the Annual Flying Star creates a special formation with the original Lo Shu. The two 9 Grid charts form what is called the Seven Star Robbery Structure.

Flying Star

This means that even if your property lacks the Seven Star Robbery Structure, you will be able to enjoy the positive effects of the Seven Star Robbery Structure in 2019. Activate this structure using the water activation method.

Furthermore, in the months of February and November 2019, the Parent String Structure will also be formed. This structure is another special Xuan Kong Flying Star structure. Activation can be done on any one of the three Seven Star Robbery Flying Star sets:

1. Flying Star set 1 : 1, 4, 7
2. Flying Star set 2: 3, 6, 9
3. Flying Star set 3: 2, 5, 8

Ideally, activation should be done on the set of stars in the prosperous Qi. This year, this will be Flying Star set 3 : 2, 5, 8. However, if you are doubtful about activating the Five Yellow, then choose future prosperity, which is represented by Flying Star set 2 : 3, 6, 9.

Water Activation

The best way to activate the Seven Star Robbery Structure is by using the water activation method. Place water in these locations based on the three Flying Star sets:

1. Flying Star set 1: #1 at West, #4 at North and #7 at Southeast
2. Flying Star set 2: #3 at South, #6 at East and #9 at Northwest
3. Flying Star set 3: #2 at Northeast, #5 at Southwest and #8 at the Centre (leave the Centre spacious and clear of clutter.)

Auspicious Dates for Activation

Activation for the month of November 2019

13 November	07:30 13:30	Monkey
18 November	09:30	Ox
23 November	00:00	Horse
30 November	03:30 21:30	Ox

When will we see this special formation again?

We will see this formation again in 2028. It repeats every 9 years.

For the example shown in Figure 1, the act of entering and exiting the main entrance at the North sector automatically activates the Flying Star #4. Occupation of the bedroom at the Southeast sector will activate the Flying Star #7. To activate the Flying Star #1, place water at the balcony at the West sector. These actions will activate the annual Seven Star Robbery Structure.

Figure 2: Flying Star set 2: #3 at South, #6 at East and #9 at Northwest

For the example shown in Figure 2, the act of entering and exiting the main entrance at the East sector automatically activates the Flying Star #6. Occupation of the working room at the Northwest sector will activate the Flying Star #9. To activate the Flying Star #3, place water plants at the South sector. These actions will activate the annual Seven Star Robbery Structure.

For the example shown in Figure 3, the act of entering and exiting the main entrance at the Northeast sector automatically activates the Flying Star #2. Occupation of the living room at the Centre will activate the Flying Star #8. To activate the Flying Star #5, place water at the Southwest 3 sector where it coincides with the Fortune Virtue Star. If you are worried about provoking the negative effect of Five Yellow by placing water at the Southwest sector, create a mini-bright hall instead. These actions will activate the annual Seven Star Robbery Structure.

Cave Hopping in Ipoh

Holding a bottle of cashew nuts and munching away, I'm so in a holiday mood! It is the eve of Chinese New Year and I'm watching my favourite fantasy wuxia drama. As with any wuxia drama, inevitably there will be some kind of cave scene – where the hero trains in a cave watched over by his master or is injured and brought to a cave to heal. Martial masters in wuxia dramas and famous monks and sages from the ancient world have one thing in common – caves are their preferred training and practice grounds.

This reminds me of my visit to Bodhidharma Cave at Shaolin Temple, China (refer to page 23 in the March 2016 Issue of Bazichic Magazine). Bodhidharma cultivated and taught Buddhism in this cave. The meridian spot located in the cave emanates positive Qi for the cultivation of great wisdom. It seems that caves bring about an inner peace. External problems seem very far away when you are in them.

That is why, when my friend suggested a trip to Ipoh, home to several well-known caves, I decided to do some cave hopping.

Of all the caves that we visited, Perak Tong Cave Temple gave the same feeling of peace I felt in Bodhidharma Cave. The scenic landscape of this cave was first discovered in 1926 by Chong Sen Yee and his wife, who came to Malaya from Jiaoling, China. The couple worked laboriously to transform the cave into the beautiful place of worship it is today. The temple houses a 40-foot tall statue of the Buddha. On the edges are four smaller statues of guardian deities. The cave walls are adorned with colourful frescos and Chinese calligraphy. The place has grown to be known as one of the best cave temples in Malaysia.

While we did not take up the physical challenge of climbing 358 steps up a narrow staircase to a garden pavilion, we did climb half way up. It still offers a good vantage point with breath-taking views of the valley below.

Perak Tong Cave Temple is one of the most famous cave temples. The temple taps into the meridian spot inside the cave. It overlooks scenic white limestone hills and a bright hall that houses many limestone mining factories. A river flows not too far from the front of the temple. These hills which have the wood and rocky form represent the Fire and Wood elements. The two elements are great for wisdom, spiritual pursuits and religious activities. Although Perak Tong Cave Temple may not have the superior landforms of the Bodhidharma Cave, there is a similar benevolent Qi surrounding the cave.

We did not manage to go to the Sam Poh

Tong Temple, which is touted as the biggest cave temple in Malaysia. We visited the Ling Sen Tong and Nam Thean Tong Taoist cave temples instead. The names of these temples literally translate to “Rock of Heavenly Spirits”. The mountain that houses the two temples features the Green Dragon Returns mountain formation, but the Qi is quite dispersed. The two temples overlook a bright hall. The millions of joss sticks offered up by local devotees have stained the cave’s roof black with smoke and ash. It is a sign of a prosperous landform. However, I like the energy of Perak Tong Cave Temple better.

I missed out on the Kwan Yin Tong, Sam Poh Tong and Kek Lok Tong. Maybe the next trip, if time permits...

CORE CHARACTERISTICS

(丙 BING FIRE DAY MASTER)

There are altogether Ten Gods arising from the two different polarities (Yin and Yang) of the Five Elements' interaction with the Day Master. Each of these Five Elements supports, destroys, controls, or exhausts one another. In the previous issues, we have shown the characteristics of the Ten Gods. Moving forward, we will be exploring how we can derive the core character or structure based on the interaction of the Earthly Branch Element of the Month Pillar with each Day Master.

In this issue's Bazi 101, we want to explore the core character of the Yang Fire (丙 Bing) Day Master born in different months. The core character of these Yang Fire Day Masters is derived from the element in the Earthly Branch of the Month Pillar (refer to Table 1 below). There are altogether twelve Earthly Branches representing twelve months. Each Earthly Branch usually contains one to three Elements known as the Hidden Stems. The Hidden Stem represents the main Qi and sub Qi of each Earthly Branch (refer to Table: Seasons and the Earthly Branches on page 68 to find out more about the Elements inside each of the Earthly Branches).

When the sub Qi of the Month Branch appears on the Heavenly Stem, then the structure of the Bazi Chart is formed by this sub Qi. The person's core character is represented by the Ten Gods of this sub Qi.

When the main Qi of the Month Branch appears on the Heavenly Stem, then the structure of the Bazi Chart is formed by this main Qi. The person's core character is represented by the Ten Gods of this main Qi.

If there is no main Qi or sub Qi of the Month Branch appearing on the Heavenly Stem, then the structure of the Bazi Chart follows the main Qi. The person's core character is represented by the Ten Gods of this main Qi.

FACE READING: YOUR FORTUNE AS TOLD BY YOUR EARS (PART II)

Size Matters

Big ears are more auspicious than small ears. Big ears belong to healthy and active people, while small ears indicate fragile health. People with small ears may be shy and quiet in their early youth.

The size of the ears is measured relative to the face. If the ear spans a large proportion of the length of the face, it is considered big. The standard measurement is as follows:

1. The Heaven Helix is on the same horizontal line as the eyebrows.
2. The Earth Helix is on the same horizontal line as the tip of the nose.

If the ears are higher than the eyebrows and lower than the tip of the nose, they are considered big. Ears are considered small when they fall below the eyebrow line and end above the tip of the nose.

A healthy white or light pinkish colour is preferred. A healthy person usually has white or light pinkish ears. We do not really like to see red, greyish white and black ears.

White ears represent good memory, healthy kidneys, excellent thinking and good analytical ability. It denotes good luck throughout life. Such a person will have high status and enjoy a good quality of life.

Pink ears represent good memory, diligence, an active and hands-on person and great achievements.

Red ears are not so good. They denote getting less than the effort put in, working fruitlessly and limited achievements. People with this type of ears live a hard life. Greyish ears denote a weak immune system. Ears of this colour indicate a weak body and deficient kidney Qi. The person also lacks luck mainly due to laziness. This type of people always complains about lethargy. They lack accomplishments in life. Black ears often denote health problems especially those related to weak kidneys. The person is pessimistic, indecisive and tends to overthink. They live a hard life.

Ear Height

Hard Ears are Preferred

Hard ears are better than soft ears. Hard ears indicate healthy kidneys, good stamina, good memory and high spirits. Soft ears often indicate weak kidneys, poor stamina and poor memory. The person with soft ears is easily influenced by others.

Well Shaped Ears

A strongly defined rounded ear and earlobe is the preferred shape. Pointy ears usually indicate that parents will go through a divorce during the person's childhood.

Height

The level of the eyebrows determines the height of the ears. Ears slightly above the eyebrows are considered high and usually indicate a very intelligent person. If the ears are overly high, it indicates an overly idealistic person who finds it hard to adapt to society. If the ears are too far below the eyebrows, this indicates a person with bad character. He or she is selfish and puts a priority on his or her own comfort.

Position

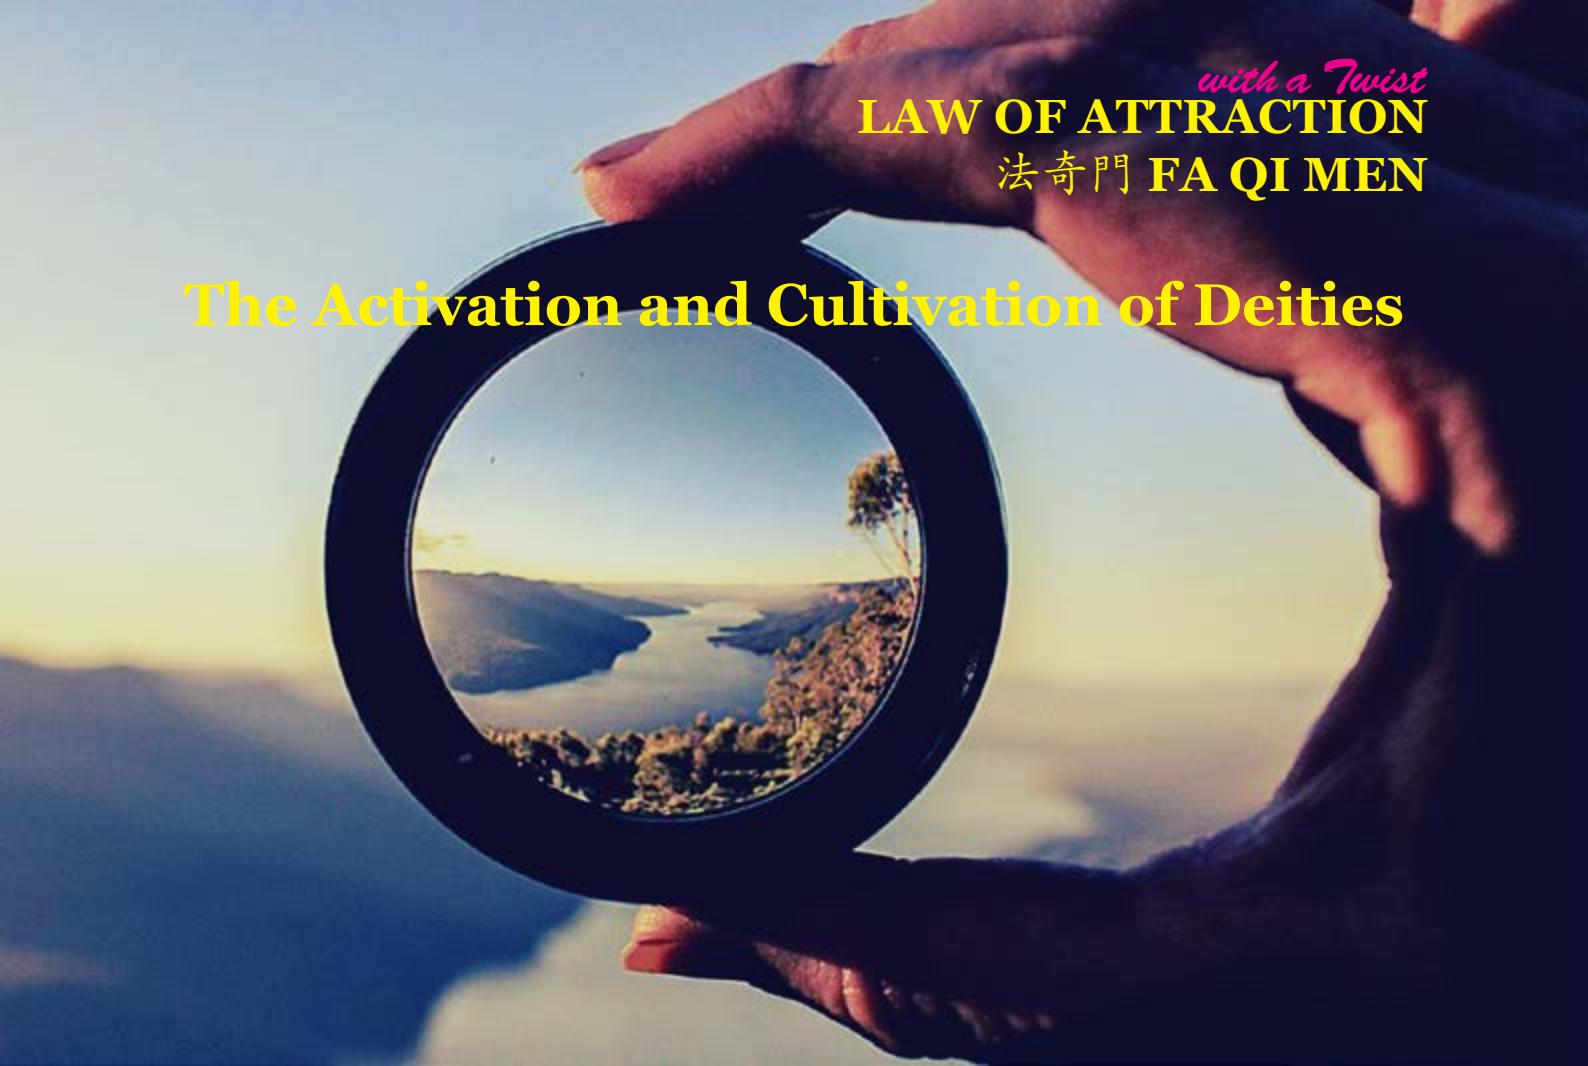

When the ears are closer to the face, they denote poor health. We like to see the ears positioned backwards or away from the face.

Earlobe

The earlobe represents luck after age 60. Big, fleshy and rounded earlobes indicate good fortune in old age. The shape and size of the earlobe grow with age. A person without earlobes will live a tough life after age 60. A young person with too large, rounded and fleshy earlobes have too much of a good life. They can become lazy. To control this, wear earrings to stop the person from becoming too indulgent.

The Activation and Cultivation of Deities

In all our articles about Fa Qi Men, we have mentioned that in order to get what you want, and have your wishes fulfilled, one has to get into an "alpha state of mind". We have also given tips and methods on how to get into this state.

So, what is an alpha state of mind?

Scientifically, it is explained as where the brain operates at partial conscious awareness and partial subconscious predominance at the same time, in cycles between 9Hz & 14Hz. From my experience and understanding, it simply means that one's mind is relaxed. It is a state of mild daydream or light relaxation.

Do you remember a time when you were very focused on something, or so engrossed in doing something that you lose track of time and the activities happening around you? This is an alpha state of mind. But you may find that when you deliberately try to get into this state of mind to make a wish, it is difficult to focus, and you are unsure about whether you are in the right state of mind.

Each person's Qi Men Destiny Chart has his or her own personal Destiny Palace marked by a direction based on his or her Day Master. That Palace contains your own unique Destiny Deity or Guardian Angel. There are all together Ten Deities under the realm of Universe in Fa Qi Men studies. In this issue, we will show you how to activate and cultivate the Nine Heaven Deity. This will be beneficial whether or not the Nine Heaven is your Guardian Angel. When you are connected strongly and intuitively to your Guardian Angel, you do not have to go into the alpha state of mind to make wishes. This makes wish making a lot easier.

Nine Heaven Deity

Keyword: Visualization

The Nine Heaven Deity's special abilities come from visualization. Those who have this Deity as their Guardian Angel have the potential to see the future and will be able to create what they see in their visions. What they see in their mind or in physical form, they will get. On one extreme, the Nine Heaven's influence can result in a "build castles in the air" mentality. This ideal can result in daydreaming, and unrealistic demands and wants.

On the other hand, when the Nine Heaven denotes blessings from Heaven, they will hardly come across any suffering or death. Individuals with the Nine Heaven Deity as their Guardian Angel should use mental imagery to become healthier, happier, and more content. The key to achieving more of what you want lies in your ability to visualize it.

Wishes will be more easily fulfilled, and you will get results faster when you ask your Destiny Deity for help. Here are some fun ways to activate and cultivate your Nine Heaven Deity on a daily basis.

1. Make a wish in the direction of your Destiny Palace

Each person has a strong connection to the energy of the Universe in a certain direction based on Fa Qi Men practices. This direction is the direction of your Destiny Palace. Your Guardian Angel or Destiny Deity resides at your Destiny Palace. When you make wishes with your back to this direction, wishes will be fulfilled more easily. Every time you make a wish in the direction of your Destiny Palace, you are activating and cultivating the Qi that connects you to the Universe.

2. Meditate and focus on the Third Eye chakra

The Nine Heaven Deity represents a person's foresight. The Ajna or third-eye chakra signifies a person's subconscious mind that can be made more powerful through meditation, yoga and other spiritual practices. A person's pair of eyes see the physical world, while the third eye will reveal insights about the future. The third eye chakra is said to connect people to intuition, and gives them the ability to communicate with the world as well as receive messages from the past and the future.

3. Harness the Power of Emotion

People these days fail to see the benefits of their emotions. Emotions are a guide. They help you assess what's happening in and around you. Successful people feel and manage their emotions. They direct their emotions, whether good or bad, in a positive way. Feel the emotions that you're experiencing and describe them. Connect these emotions to your goals. Your mental pictures of your goals will come alive. Always align your heart's desires with your mental imagery.

4. Make Time for Clarity

Slow down! There is no point in hustling if you're going in the wrong direction. Too many people work tirelessly but don't get the results they want. It's like a hamster running on a wheel. You are working hard but achieving nothing. Schedule 30 minutes every day to check in with yourself. Reflect on your intentions and observe the challenges or opportunities showing up in front of you.

5. Cultivate silence

Why? Because this will elevate your senses to higher levels. Silence is "the space between," connecting you with your psychic abilities and the Universe. Silence will enable you to listen to the messages that come from deep within your soul. A busy or noisy mind will miss out on messages from the universe.

6. Relax

It is hard to have a good visualization session if you are feeling stressed and uptight. Do not try to do any visualisation or reflection if you are feeling moody or angry. Make sure that you are in a positive and comfortable state when you sit down to visualize your goals. You are more likely to have fun when you are relaxed. This will help you to invoke the powers of your creative abilities.

7. Create a Visual Representation of your Goal

Take a photograph of yourself with your goal, as if it were already completed. For example, go to your local auto dealer. Sit in your dream car, and have a photo taken of yourself sitting behind the wheel of your dream car. If your goal is to travel around the world, find six to seven pictures or posters of famous landmarks around the world. Cut out photos of yourself and place them onto those pictures. This is a powerful visualization technique. It subconsciously takes away the stress and doubts of not being able to achieve your goal.

8. Spark Off from A Single Idea

Do you have a clear detailed picture of your goal? Most people don't. It is okay to start with a single and blur idea. Do not over-think

The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams.

~ Eleanor Roosevelt

or over-analyse or restrict yourself to what you think is possible. Follow your heart and see where it leads you.

If you wish for a cottage on a beautiful farm, picture yourself working in your garden outside your dream home. Want to get an MBA? Picture yourself at the graduation ceremony receiving an award. Searching for true love? Imagine waking up, rolling over and seeing your ideal partner lying next to you, fast asleep.

9. Creative Visualization

You do not have to visualize your goal in the same sequence or visualize the same storyline over and over. Repetition is boring. Visualization should be fun. Anything goes. As long as your emotions and mental imagery stay positive and happy.

Say you are working on visualizing the perfect vacation. Scene one can have you picturing the beautiful scenery and environment you are in. In scene two, you are meeting friendly people on vacation and enjoying their company.

Scene three sees you getting dressed and feeling excited about what is to come. In scene four, imagine yourself laughing as you tell your friends about your trip.

10. Use Affirmations

An affirmation is a statement of truth which one aspires to in life. It not only evokes a picture but also the emotions and experience of already having what you want. Affirmation is a powerful way to support your visualization. When practising affirmations, believe in yourself. Believe that you are inherently healthy when you want good health; believe you are inherently prosperous when you want prosperity; believe that you are inherently wise when you want wisdom.

We hope you have fun cultivating the Nine Heaven Deity as your Guardian Angel! Stay tuned for more information on other Guardian Angels in our future issues.
